Introduction

Change is inevitable, and our goal is to manage change, rather than let change manage us. Where our storied history as a single-disciplinary institution taught us the importance of expertise on a subject-matter, it is also equally vital to evolve to ensure consistent alignment between our future strategic directions and new educational trends.

In essence, UEH advocates for and is building towards a future university that is both multidisciplinary and sustainable. To do that, the university commits to upholding and integrating best practices in line with the United Nations' 17 Sustainable Development Goals. This report shall serve as our way to transparently communicate with our stakeholders, to claim accountability and responsibility and to take the necessary actions and measure our progress over time.

UEH University of the 21st century is more competitive, nimble and technology-reliant. Guided by our standards of excellence and inspired by the confidence from the students, their families and our colleagues in the education industry, we commit to fulfilling our mission to enhance and elevate knowledge acquisition, breed young talents in the age of globalized integration, and pioneer in innovation and public services.

"Change is inevitable. Our goal is to manage change rather than let change manage us."

*Professor Nguyen Dong Phong
Chairman of UEH University Council*

No Poverty

End poverty in all its forms everywhere

With aspirations to become a key leading multidisciplinary university in Southeast Asia and the world, UEH has tirelessly worked to promote meaningful scientific research activities, renew training programs, improve facilities and implement timely policies to attract scientists, experts and learners. The effort also includes making education more openly accessible to all students from all backgrounds and walks of life. This can be seen most clearly in the actions that the university has taken. In particular, in 2021, UEH announced several scholarship policies for international students.

Reduced Inequalities

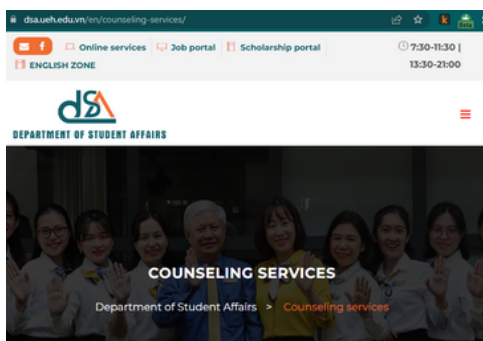

Reduce inequality within and among countries

Celebrate diversity, embrace the inclusive spirit

The students are at the core and the very essence of what makes UEH uniquely UEH. Our aim is to set them up for success in whatever ways or forms we can, whether it be through academic support, counseling services or fostering a truly diverse learning environment.

Explore the free services and support available to UEH students - connect with your peers, teaching and support staff, and know you're supported all the way

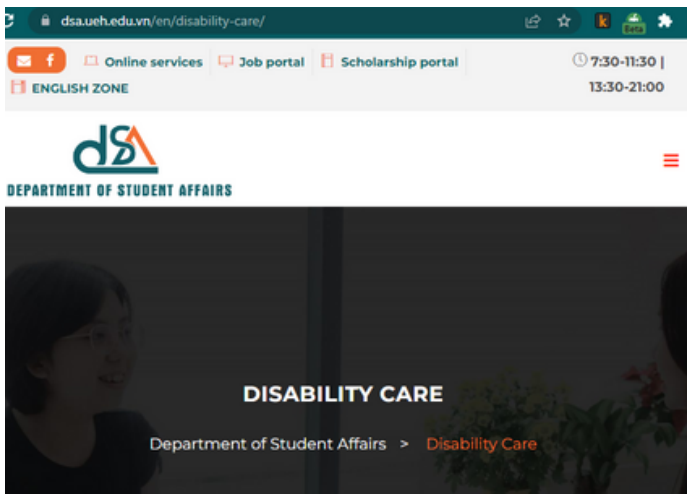

“ Besides academic advisory activities, DSA also conducts mental training sections for learners who encounter problems coming from psychological disorders. Our team will help learners find the best solutions to overcome their problems. In addition to our team, we also connect with professionals and experts from other faculties and institutions to assist us in some particular situations.

Reduced Inequalities

Reduce inequality within and among countries

DSA offers counseling and supportive services to students with disabilities, such as studying methods, accommodation, university facilities, assistive software, scholarship, and other personal matters. Furthermore, DSA will coordinate with relevant departments on designing learning activities for disabled students. DSA maintains strong relationships with academic advisors, lecturers, the UEH Youth Union – Student Union to promptly pay visits, encourage and arrange our support to the UEH students who suffer from bad health conditions due to illness and accidents.

“Education helps people find themselves” (Socrates).

UEH has fulfilled this educational mission by creating a learning environment where learners are given the best learning conditions to develop themselves. The value also lies in the fact that UEH is especially interested in creating opportunities for people with disabilities to study, train and contribute equally as everyone else in the community through financial support, facilities, specialized equipment, etc.

Sustainable Cities & Communities

Make cities and human settlements inclusive, safe, resilient and sustainable

“Shuttle Bus UEH” Service

is an express bus service, with routes, trips, and stops designed particularly for officials and students of University of Economics Ho Chi Minh City (UEH) to commute from the city center to UEH Nguyen Van Linh Campus.

Hybrid Learning at UEH

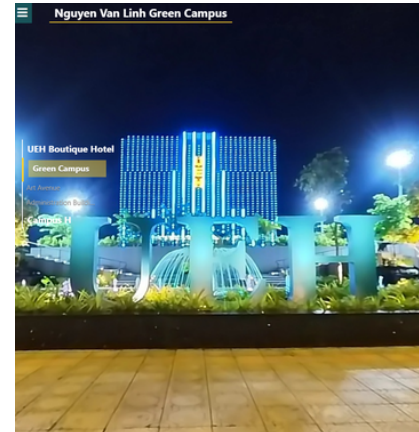

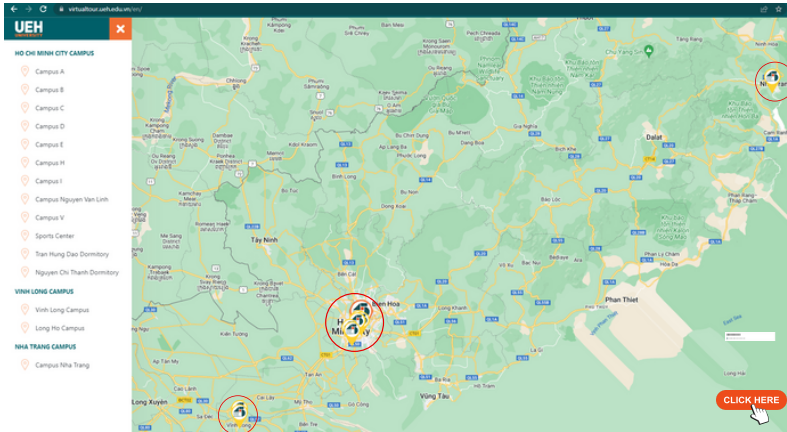

In recent years, along with the development of comprehensive education worldwide as well as the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, teaching methods have undergone a drastic change. In Vietnam, the process of transforming teaching methods has also taken place drastically in educational institutions, including the University of Economics Ho Chi Minh City (UEH). In that wave of innovation in teaching methods, blended learning, currently, is considered an optimal method and brings the highest teaching effectiveness with a synchronous combination of teaching models (face-to-face and online), providing learners with effective and wonderful learning experiences.

Sustainable Cities & Communities

Make cities and human settlements inclusive, safe, resilient and sustainable

Visit UEH Campus

As part of our effort to make education accessible to more people, UEH has created a virtual tour website, both Vietnamese and English audio available, to allow visitors, prospective students, parents and partners to capture a quick glance of all our campus locations and the kinds of facilities they should expect when coming to university.

Climate Action

Take urgent action to combat climate change and its impacts

Seminar: "Policy On Climate Change Adaptation In The Mekong Delta" - UEH Vinh Long Campus

This seminar was held on a large scale, considered a "forum" for scientific researchers, managers and policy makers in the Mekong Delta region to meet, exchange and present research achievements with the common goal of understanding the problems and impacts of the state of climate change, thereby forming methods and policy tools to be adaptable to the negative effects brought about by climate change.

UEH taking climate actions

In line with our forward-thinking practice as well as aspirations to become a sustainable & multidisciplinary future university, UEH joined hands with various world organizations to discuss research topics, diagnostic reports on climate actions as well as how to apply the tools of economics and trans-disciplinary approach in the analysis of policy-relevant environmental challenges and related issues in Southeast Asia

Life Below Water

Conserve and sustainably use the oceans, seas and marine resources for sustainable development

EEPSEA PARTNERSHIP ANNUAL CONFERENCE

At the conference, researchers discussed the applied economics instrument and other emergent issues relating to adaptation, damages reduction induced by environmental consequences as well as the strategies of green growth, towards the region's comprehensively sustainable economic development such as policy-based tools, responsive scenarios, transition management, and international cooperation. Additionally, the conference was also conducted with 7 parallel sessions with topics of interest pertaining to Southeast Asia's Economy and Environment such as: Climate Change, Fisheries and Marine Resources, Environment and Development, Pollution and Health, Ecological Tourism and Services, Disasters and Adaptive Policy, and Environmental Valuation.

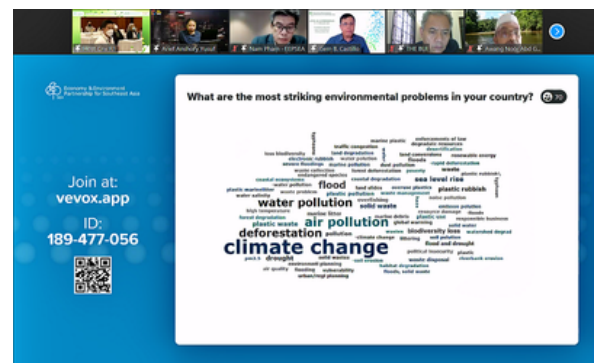

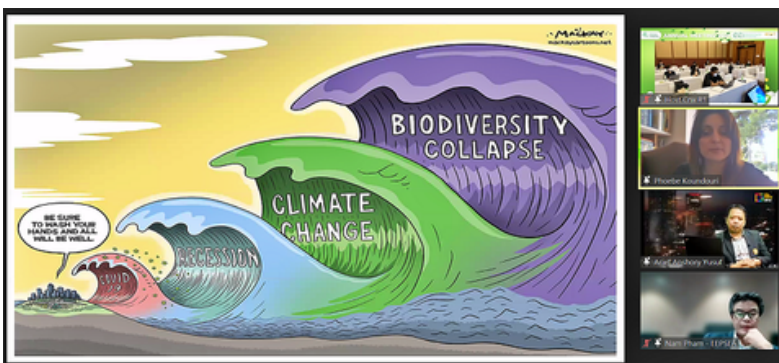

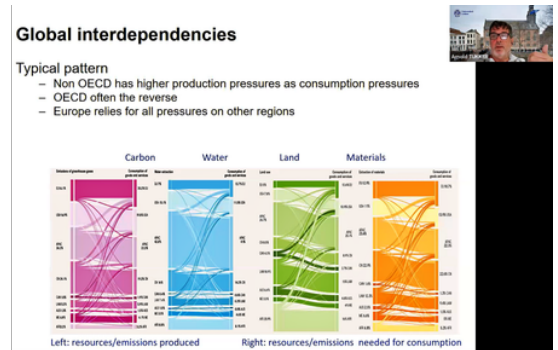

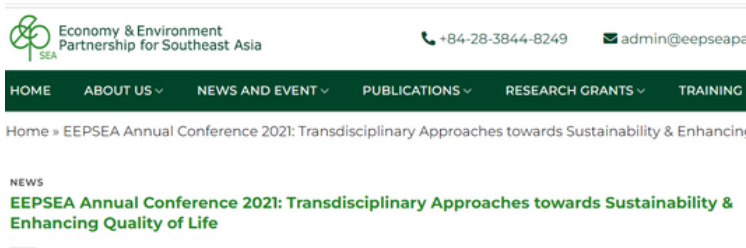

Life Below Water

Conserve and sustainably use the oceans, seas and marine resources for sustainable development

“Environmental Economics in Southeast Asia – Transdisciplinary Approaches towards Sustainability and Enhancing Quality of Life”

The conference “Environmental Economics in Southeast Asia – Transdisciplinary Approaches towards Sustainability and Enhancing Quality of Life” was hosted by the Economy & Environment Partnership for Southeast Asia (EEPSEA), jointly with the Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (Sida), College of Economics, Law & Government at the UEH University, and Environment for Development Center in Vietnam. This is part of EEPSEA’s ongoing work in promoting research in environmental economics using transdisciplinary approaches to increase sustainability and enhance life quality

Following the introduction of EEPSEA’s grant programs, the conference continued with 3 parallel sessions: session 2A on Marine resource management, session 2B on Environmental valuation, and session 2C for new research proposals.

Life On Land

Protect, restore and promote sustainable use of terrestrial ecosystems, sustainably manage forests, combat desertification, and halt and reverse land degradation and halt biodiversity loss

Waste separation at UEH

Waste separation (waste sorting) at source, currently, is an extremely important and urgent task that needs to be conducted in households, businesses, schools and so on in order to reduce the amount of waste going to urban areas, to process waste in a systematic manner with more responsibility and to avoid causing environmental pollution. One of the main goals of “UEH – Zero Waste Campus” Living Lab Project is to know how to properly classify waste at source and apply 3R model (Reduce – Reuse – Recycle) in sustainable waste management, bringing back the school and life environment greener and cleaner.

Life On Land

Protect, restore and promote sustainable use of terrestrial ecosystems, sustainably manage forests, combat desertification, and halt and reverse land degradation and halt biodiversity loss

By actively building the green landscape of UEH Green Campus N, contributing to the new urban area of South City to become the "green lung" of the city, UEH expresses its commitment to always strive to provide the best educational and research environment, helping students to effectively learn knowledge, improve practical application capacity, awakening the creative potential in each person, developing excellent economists and administrators for society. The program will continue to be implemented in the near future for UEH's lecturers, officials and students to participate.

Peace, Justice & Strong Institutions

Promote peaceful and inclusive societies for sustainable development, provide access to justice for all and build effective, accountable and inclusive institutions at all levels

RESOLUTION on the promulgation of the Regulations on Organization and Operation of the University of Economics Ho Chi Minh City (UEH)

Chapter XI (page 55-59) details the terms and conditions, as well as the manners in which UEH shall identify and engage with local stakeholders. These are inclusive of:

- The Ministry of Education & Training
- The Party Committee of Universities and Colleges of Ho Chi Minh City, the People's Committee of Ho Chi Minh City
- The local authorities
- Socio-political organizations within the system of education and training sector and HCMC
- The Party committee and the University Council

and more

University of Economics Ho Chi Minh City (UEH) collaborated with the People’s Committee of Ba Ria Province - Vung Tau on organizing the short-term training course on “Innovation and Digitalization in Public Sector” for more than 100 key leading officials at Provincial and District levels within the Province.

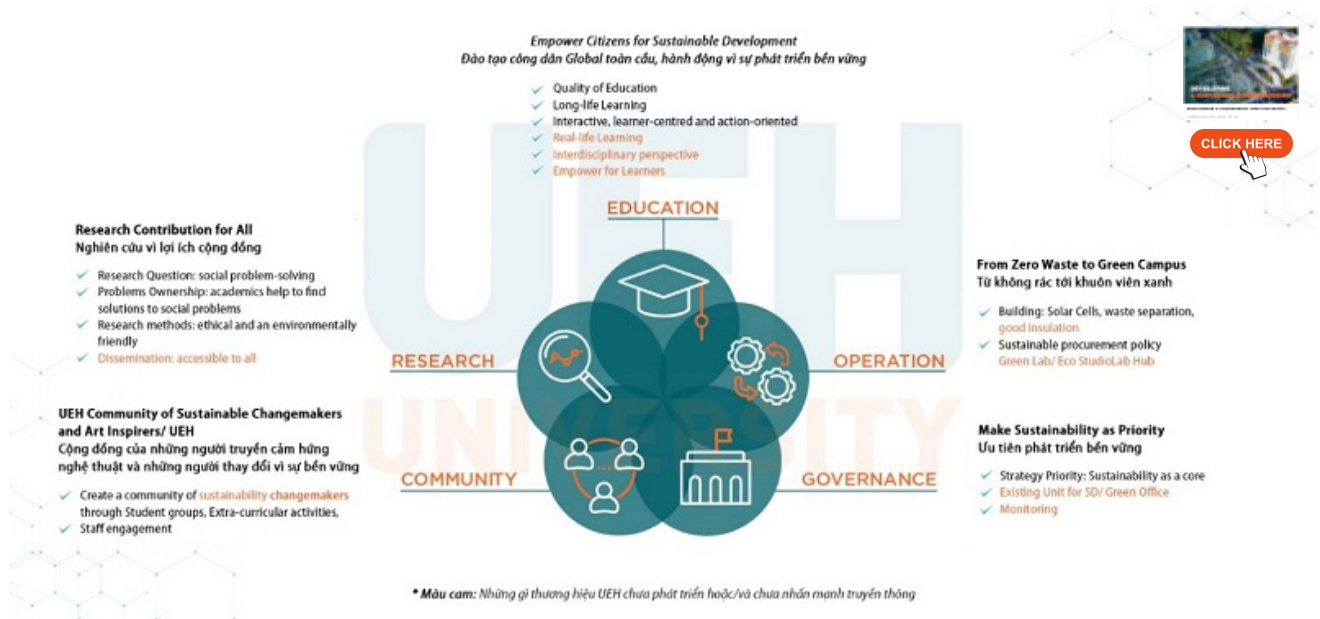

UEH Safe Spaces

UEH has implemented various designated platforms for students of all academic levels/backgrounds to express their concerns and participate in ongoing conversations on a variety of student-centric topics, which can include university governance opportunities and challenges, academic/career prospects, and more.

Partnership for the Goals

Strengthen the means of implementation and revitalize the Global Partnership for Sustainable Development

UEH is consistently proven to be on the right track for sustainable university development through the achievements in training, research, community connection, school operation and administration. It is the year 2021 that marks a major turning point for UEH with our restructuring strategy to become a multidisciplinary and sustainable UEH University (2022-2030 period). UEH, counting from this moment, is both aiming at sustainable development and moving to a new phase: sustainable action in the pillars of training, research, operation, governance and community connection.

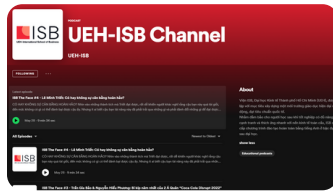

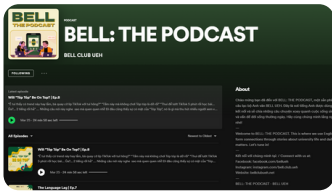

Restructuring and becoming a multidisciplinary and sustainable UEH University is a vital decision for UEH and follows the development trend of the times, fulfilling a university responsibility in implementing the UN's 17 Sustainable Development Goals. Determined and inspired, UEH commits to take on new challenges willingly to build and develop a sustainable university, contributing to the more prosperous development of the society.
